Brothers and Sisters,

Recently, word has been going around that engineers will not be able to be compensated for unused personal, vacation, and sick days at the end of this year. Let me state once and for all that those rumors are 100% false. Apparently one or more carrier officials have been repeating this rumor in the belief that it applies to all employees. Only non-agreement employees (management) are no longer permitted to "cash in" unused time. Engineers may still receive payment for all unused personal days, vacation time, and up to 5 sick days that were not used in 2011 (sick days may also be carried over to following years at the engineer's option). This was confirmed in a discussion with the director of labor relations. If you have any questions please don't hesitate to contact me.
